Second-Guessers Took Holiday

For once, curling skips had no second-guessers experting behind the glass at the Victoria Curling Club's bonspiel last night. All eyes were rivetted on a television up behind the lunch counter where Montreal and Toronto were battling it out in the Stanley Cup hockey final.—(Photo by Bill Boucher)

Provost, Playoff Hero Sparks Canadiens Again

MONTREAL—Claude Provost, a Montreal lesser-light with a penchant for "big" goals, scored twice in the third period here last night to give the Canadiens a 3-1 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs and a commanding 2-0 lead in the Stanley Cup final.

Provost drilled a 20-foot backhander past Johnny Bower early in the period to break a 1-1 deadlock and, with two minutes left to play, raced almost the length of the ice to score again and ease the pressure.

Canadiens are going for their fourth straight Stanley Cup championship, and thus far the unheralded Provost has played a major role in their march. Canadiens have won six playoff games and Provost has scored the winning goal in three of them. He has a total of six for the playoffs.

Montreal went into last night's game a solid 4-1 choice to take the series, and on their performance the odds should go up considerably. The Habs handled the young and speedy Leafs with all of their old poise and skill, and only goalie Johnny Bower gave them any particular trouble.

Bower was spectacular. He made 41 saves, 17 in a hectic second period. In the final 10 minutes of the game, he stopped four ticketed shots and was the one factor that kept the Leafs in contention.

Leafs trailed 1-0 at the end of the first period after a goal by Tom Johnson. Ron Stewart got it back in the second period on a pretty play, but only on rare occasions did the Leafs show playoff hockey form.

HARVEY STARS

Most of their troubles came from poor passing, wild shooting, and a veteran defenceman named Doug Harvey. Harvey, the perennial National Hockey League all-star, was bouncing Leafs all over the ice, and also found time to set up Provost for the winning goal.

Leafs missed their big chance to tie the score at 2-2 late in the third period. Goalie Jacques Plante was behind his own net and Brian Cullen was wide on a clear shot at the open net. The Leafs were never to get a better opportunity.

The best-of-seven series switches to Toronto Tuesday and Thursday, Coach Punch Imlach was as defiant as ever about Toronto's chances, although he had stated earlier that the Leafs had to win one of the first two games at Montreal.

NOT THE CUP

"Montreal has just won two games, not the cup. We've been behind the eight ball before this season and won."

Coach Toe Blake had high praise for Provost and Henri Richard, who both played on two different lines.

"I think the whole team played better," he added. "They had to. It was a very tough game and the Leafs checked closely."

Past Winner

One of eight former winners of Sid Thomas Memorial Trophy as outstanding figure in Victoria sport is swimming coach Archie McKinnon, who took title in 1953. Daily Colonist offers $25 to the reader sending in best letter nominating candidate for the trophy this year. Deadline for entries is April 23. All letters should be sent to "Sid Thomas Trophy, Daily Colonist, Victoria."

Nagurski's Son With Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP)—Bronko Nagurski, son of the legendary Chicago Bears star fullback of that name in the 1930s, has been signed by Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football League.

The six-foot, 230-pound tackle would be classed as a non-import if he becomes a Canadian citizen since his father was born in Manitoba.

Nanaimo Foursome Aggregate Material

Bill Karjala, veteran Nanaimo bonspieler, seems headed for his second straight Grand Aggregate win in the Victoria Curling Club bonspiel and may score a sweep by winning both primary events.

Backed steadily by Bev Smiley, Gene Koster and Ed Wilson, Karjala scored two thrilling wins yesterday, his sixth and seventh in a row without defeat, to reach the smi-finals of the Grand Challenge (Dominion Hotel) event and the eights of the Colonist Challenge.

To remain as the only unbeaten rink, he sneaked by Victoria's Ed Wilson, 11-10, in a quarter-final game in the Grand Challenge. It was Wilson's first loss.

Last night, Karjala had to make a raise takeout to avoid an extra end against Lanigan of Victoria, winning, 8-5. That one put him in the quarter-finals of the Colonist Challenge, where he was due to play Ron Coulter of Victoria early this morning.

TWO TUMBLE

The two other unbeaten rinks tumbled on last night's 8 o'clock draw. Pacific Meat of Victoria won a tense 7-5 verdict over Ed Mould's Duncan rink, skipped by Fred Duncan.

Also suffering their first loss were Clare Anderson's Victoria veterans, who were beaten, 11-5, by Jim Tang of Victoria in a Colonist Challenge quarter-final. Anderson and Mould had both won six in a row before losing and Wilson had a 5-0 record when edged by Karjala.

Going into last night's late draws, Karjala, Pacific Meat and Victoria's Joe Leibel, first rink to reach the prizes, were in the semi-finals of the Grand Challenge and Tang was out to the semi-finals in the Colonist Challenge.

Other rinks out to the fours were Jack Moir's Tudor House fouresome, in the Hudson's Bay trophy and Dick Brumwell of Victoria and Bill Wadsworth's Duncan rink, skipped by Gary Merrett, in the Eaton Trophy. At the completion of this morning's 8 o'clock draw, the fours will be complete in the two primary and two secondary events and the tertiary events will be out to the eights.

Starting last night's late draw, the field of 65 rinks had been trimmed to 41 with 24 rinks out of the bonspiel. Finals will be played this evening.

Today's first draw follows: 8 a.m.—Robertson vs. Six Mile House, McLean vs. Wilson, Bowering vs. Garraway, Anderson vs. MacDonald, Coulter vs. Sturrock, Chadwick vs. Moore, Walls vs. Nugent, Filipchuk vs. Ludlow.

Just Okay Needed For LA Pro Hockey

VANCOUVER (CP)—Los Angeles and San Francisco will be ready for professional hockey next season if Western League governors give the word.

Bill Nicholas, superintendent of the Los Angeles Coliseum and the newly-erected 16,000-seat ice arena, said here Friday:

"We certainly want a hockey team. We had been holding out for a National Hockey League franchise, but as that doesn't seem feasible at this time, we are more than anxious to obtain a berth in the Western League."

YMCA Swimmers Splash In Second

Dark-horse Victoria YMCA came up with a surprise showing Saturday night at Crystal Garden to finish only two points behind the winning Vancouver Dolphin Club in annual B.C. swimming and diving championships.

Coach Bob Johnstone's youthful Victoria club compiled 152 points during the single-day meet that concluded with 36 evening events before an enthusiastic crowd of approximately 350 pro-YMCA rooters.

Dolphin Club narrowly won the meet with 154 points. Closely following Victoria YMCA was Vancouver Amateur Club, pre-meet favorites, with 148 points. Victoria Amateur Club, finished far back with 29 points——nevertheless a good showing from a club that had very few entries.

Big winners for Victoria YMCA were Bob Wheaton, first place finisher in the senior men's 100 yard butterfly event; Mike McNeely, first place winner in the boys' 13-14 100-yard breaststroke and the freestyle girls' and boys' 15-16 400-yard freestyle teams that both won events.

YMCA girls finished both first and second in the 400-yard freestyle. "A" team placed first, "B" second.

Top winners for the winning Dolphin club were Mary Stewart and Marg Iwasaki, both renowned across Canada swimming sensations. Miss Stewart walked off with the girls' 13-14 100 yards freestyle event and also the 100 yards butterfly race.

Miss Iwasaki led all meet winners with five event victories. She also sparked Dolphins to wins in two other medley relays and easily was the successful meet's outstanding individual.

Victoria Y's Susan Holland finished runner-up to Miss Iwasaki on three occasions.

VIEWS of SPORT

By Red Smith

Every now and then a story gets on the cables about some inmate of a boobyhatch in England running a 14-cent investment into a huge fortune by picking the results of a clutch of football games on a pool card. The force of example is strong. It is this which encourages Americans, some of whom are allowed out without a leash, to continue forecasting finishes in major league baseball.

It should be made clear at the outset that there is one team in the American League this year that is altogether capable of beating the Yankees. Furthermore, this team will be exposed to public view in Yankee Stadium this afternoon starting at 2 o'clock. No, Virginia, it is not the Boston Red Sox, though some of them are expected to be present there, too.

The team is the New York Yankees. It is the considered judgment in this quarter that the Yankees themselves could, if they chose, interrupt New York's despotic reign and that they are the only players in the league who could do so.

Mr. George Weiss, the thinking man, and Mr. Charles Dillon Stengel, the revolving genius, obviously agree with this view. If they didn't then Mr. Weiss would have felt no need to employ Hawkshaws to tail the players to bowling alleys, soda fountains, and similar dens, last summer, and Mr. Stengel would not have gone around all winter knocking sin at the top of his syntax.

Barring the possibility that the Yankees might beat themselves, placings from second through eighth may be assigned in this order: Chicago, Detroit, Boston, Cleveland, Baltimore, Kansas City, Washington.

Neither Numerous Nor Drastic

In Detroit, a lively front office effected numerous personnel changes during the winter, and because of this there is a disposition among many scholars to regard the Tigers as the league's likeliest candidates for improvement. The changes, however, are neither more numerous nor more drastic than the ones made in Detroit a year earlier—Billy Martin to shortstop, Harvey Kuenn to the outfield, etc.—and the result was a bold charge from fourth place in 1957 to fifth in 1958.

Chicago, with a good defence, good pitchers, and a power attack that would break down fences in the Little League, will experience an adventurous summer unless there is a startling form reversal on the part of Bill Veeck, the new tenant of the Comiskey Park offices. Veeck is a restless spirit and an imaginative one, and if he could invent a means of scoring runs without base-runners the White Sox might kick up more trouble than Mrs. O'Leary's cow.

There appears to be a good deal of muscle in the Boston batting order, and a gossamer charm about the defence. As for the rest of the league, the fact that Baltimore played in Washington offers a satisfactory reason why President Eisenhower celebrated opening day shaking iron shots in Augusta, Ga.

In 1876 when conspirators met in a locked parlor of New York's Grand Central Hotel to form the National League, they had the admirable foresight to exclude the Yankees from their organization. This created among the help a sense of comfort and security, and ever since then they have had a peachy time playing happily among themselves from April through September.

No Peril Until October

They are expected to enjoy themselves again this summer, sporting happily in the knowledge that no real peril can overtake them before October. At that time they will approach the annual World Series ordeal on reluctant feet, possibly in the following order: Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Chicago, Philadelphia, and Los Angeles.

For every argument supporting the logic of this alignment, there is an equally sound reason for disputing it, so the points in favor may be stated briefly.

The Pirates were a team of youth and promise last year and their one big deal of the winter—by which they acquired Smoky Burgess, Don Hoak, and Harvey Haddix—may have aided them at three positions. The Giants had rare luck with rookies in 1958 and have added a couple of pitchers, though second-year ague may be a hazard.

Before the Braves got Red Schoendienst to play second base, they were a splendid team that consistently ran second or third. Now that they no longer have R.S. to play 2b, it is reasonable to regard them as a s.t. destined for 2d or 3d.

Cincinnati has batters, St. Louis has beer, Chicago has chewing-gum, and Philadelphia has a franchise that may turn up next in Camden, N.J.

The mighty oak that grew and flourished in Brooklyn has withered in the California sun. If another summer of service can be had from some of the Flatbush retreads, the Dodgers may improve on the seventh-place finish of last year.

'Toothpick' Jones' Revenge Gained at Cards' Expense

Sam Jones, munching happily on the ever-present toothpick, stopped St. Louis Cardinals, 5-2, with a solid eight-hitter last night as San Francisco Giants collected their first dividend on the trade that brought Jones to them from the Cards in exchange for Bill White.

The 34-year-old righthander was in trouble against his old team only when his defence failed him, and his performance was a delight to Bill Rigney, who once said the Giants bought the National League pennant when they got Jones.

Jones, last year's National League strikeout king, struck out seven with dazzling curves and a deceptive fast ball. Six of the St. Louis hits were infield scratches and one run was unearned. Stan Musial got one of the outfield hits, his first in seven trips to the plate.

Just to make the Giant triumph more complete, White went 0-4 for the Cards, and walked once. The Cardinals left 11 men stranded.

Orlando Cepeda drove in four runs with a pair of two-run doubles.

Weather continued to play hob with the major league schedule as New York and Boston, Baltimore and Washington, and Cincinnati and Philadelphia were all rained out.

Milwaukee Braves made it two in a row over Pittsburgh Pirates, winning 4-3 as Del Crandall, Hank Aaron and Eddie Mathews hit homers to help a shaky Lew Burdette. Wes Covington also bailed out Burdette with a perfect throw to the plate from left field to cut down the potential tying run with two out in the ninth inning.

In the other National League game, Chicago Cubs beat Los Angeles Dodgers, 6-1, behind the impressive six-hit pitching of young Bobby Anderson.

Chicago White Sox won their second straight in the American League, turning on power they aren't supposed to have, and nailing Detroit Tigers, 5-3. Sherm Lollar homered twice and Luis Aparicio hit one. Early Wynn won his 250th major league game.

Cleveland Indians also won their second in a row, beating Kansas City Athletics, 3-2, as Dick Brodowski turned in a fine relief chore for the second time in as many days. Brodowski relieved Don Ferrarese and got out of a bases-loaded situation in the eighth then set the A's down in order in the ninth.

Braves Get Vernon In Player Swap

CLEVELAND (AP)—First baseman Mickey Vernon was traded to the Milwaukee Braves Saturday for pitcher Humberto Robinson, the Cleveland Indians announced. It was a straight player swap with no cash involved.

Robinson, a 28-year-old righthander, had a 2-4 record with the Braves last season.

The 40-year-old Vernon, who also has played at Washington and Boston, was in his 19th season in the American League. He batted .293 last season in 119 games.

Arcaro Rides Plate

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—Eddie Arcaro, generally regarded as North America's greatest jockey, is to come to Canada to ride in the 100th annual running of the Queen's Plate at Woodbine track in Toronto, June 30.

Joe Thomas, manager of the E. P. Taylor's Windfields Farm says Arcaro has agreed to ride one of the Toronto industrialist's entrants in the centennial of America's oldest annually-contested stakes race.
